

International Certificate in Sports Chiropractic (ICSC)

The upper and lower extremity hands-on seminars provide the basic skills and knowledge for chiropractors who would like to obtain an International Certificate in Sports Chiropractic (ICSC). Registrants completing the certification hands-on seminars and meeting the requirements of the hand on seminar and the online learning modules (e-learning program), qualify to work as a volunteer at international games and events.

ICSC theory session

FICS are embracing and using the technology available to offer this Upper and Lower Extremity seminar using a hybrid method. The theory section will be via a live online forum, the month before the delivery of the in-person sessions. Theory virtual session comprises all functions related to the delivery of the theory section of the course. It will form the foundation knowledge of the course and must be attended prior to the candidate attending the in-person session. A short quiz will be sent to the candidate on completion of this session, which will be recorded on their file for completion purposes.

In person sessions

This in person session will comprise the learning materials, active and interactive, which involve registrants' hands-on skills. These sessions allow for interaction between the registrants and the instructors, networking opportunities and in-class practice to refine skills learnt. Please wear clothing that will allow your class partner to access the extremity. CMT, soft tissue therapies and strapping interventions will be highlighted in this seminar and will require the region to be accessible.

Completion:

Registrants must attend both the virtual and in-person sessions, as well as completed the post theory session quiz to be awarded completion of the seminar. Records will be kept by FICS for the awarding of the seminar completion certificate and the completion of the ICSC.
